

Black & White Photography of New York City

"New York City becomes a fantasy place where the architecture of building and people merge"

- Diane Galpin

Born and raised in New Zealand, Diane has spent the past thirty years living and working in Australia, during which time she has travelled extensively. This has afforded her some unique photographic opportunities. A self-taught photographer Diane has specialized in black and white photography. Diane's deep passion for New York City and her use of the enigmatic art of black and white photography has enabled her to reveal the city's essence. London, New York, Los Angeles, and Sydney are just a few of the places where Diane's photographs can be found in private collections.

From Beach Patterns to Water Tanks & Windows, Diane's web galleries will show you New York City like no one else can.

Above: Diane Galpin between Actor/Comic, Simon Gray, and Writer/Director, Tim McLean on set of the feature film "The Professional Idiot" where Diane's art photos are featured.

Beach Patterns

Doors

Water Tanks & Windows

Left: Examples of what is instore for you browse through some of the web galleries

© Copyright 2004-2009 Diane Galpin All rights reserved

Black and White Photography by Diane Galpin